

Restrict purchasing for logged in customers only

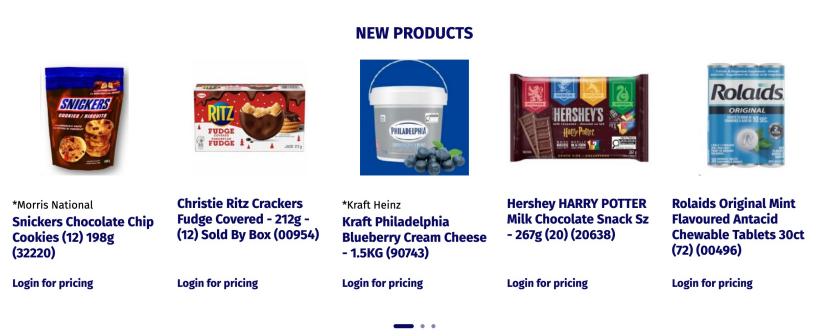

Last Modified on 19/12/2025 11:25 am GMT

This setting allows you to limit purchasing activity on the storefront to authenticated users. When enabled, WebSell will hide pricing and the Add to Cart button for any customer who is not logged into an account.

Anonymous visitors can still browse the catalog, view product information, and navigate categories, but they will not see any transactional controls or item pricing until they sign in. This option is often used for B2B stores that require customer verification before displaying negotiated pricing or allowing ordering activity.

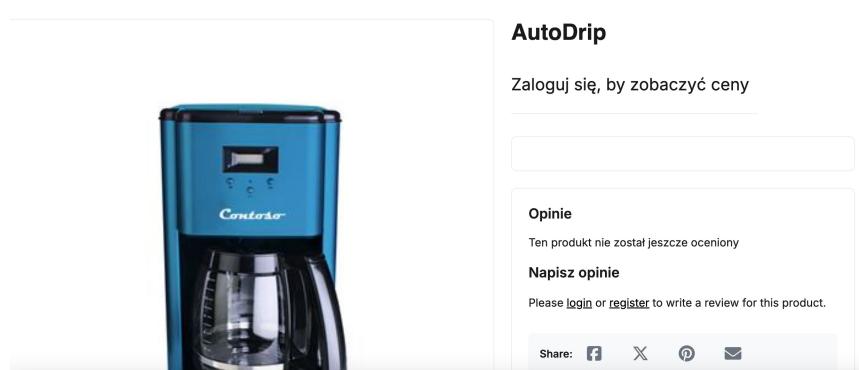

Once a user signs into a valid account, the storefront will display pricing and the Add to Cart option based on that customer's assigned pricing configuration.
